WHAT'S NEW

Type Ahead

Find cases by name even faster with the new Type Ahead feature on WLNC. Just start typing a case name into the search box on the WestlawNext Canada home page and see a list of suggested cases appear.

Suggestions display case name, neutral citation (if available), Carswell citation, Court, and Date. Exact matches are displayed first. Suggestions are ordered by citation frequency, meaning that those cases that have been cited in subsequent decisions more often will be ranked higher than those cited less frequently.

The top five suggestions will automatically display; simply click the "view more" link to see additional suggestions. You can see up to 20 suggestions.

For cases which have both French and English versions (e.g. Supreme Court cases), the suggested case will be the English or French version depending on which language interface you are using.

Exact capitalization, punctuation and brackets are not necessary; however, spacing does matter. Do not eliminate spaces or add additional spaces.

The more characters you type, the more refined the list becomes.

As soon as you see the case you are looking for, one click will take you directly to the full text of that case.

Filter for Notes and Highlights

Quickly retrieve the documents that are relevant for your legal work with a new group of filters added to search result lists. The Annotated Documents filter allows you to narrow the results to display only items where Notes (i.e. sticky notes), Highlighting, or neither have been added. This filter will be appearing at the bottom left of most search results.

Index to Canadian Legal Literature (ICLL) now on WestlawNext Canada

Your best source for finding legal information – ICLL – is now moving onto WestlawNext Canada. The ICLL is Canada's only comprehensive legal bibliography, containing books, articles, government publications, audio-visual materials, continuing legal education materials, case comments and annotations (available in English and French). WestlawNext Canada provides linking from ICLL references to full text of cases and articles on the service. Case comments are also displayed in Keycite Canada results as secondary source citing references.

New additions to the Index reflect the changing sources of legal information and recognize that interesting and pertinent legal articles come in many shapes and forms.

Now included in ICLL:

- Podcasts have been added to the Index beginning in 2014
- ICLL has always indexed packets from legal education seminars and conferences at the bibliographical level -- as of 2015, we are indexing each article contained in those packets
- YouTube videos of authors and presenters offering presentations on legal matters – coming in 2015 or 2016

The decision was made for these to be added to the Index on a selective basis. Like any addition to the ICLL, a rigorous editorial evaluation is conducted prior to the inclusion of the material in the Index.

ICLL on WestlawNext Canada means enhanced functionality including:

- Filters that allow researchers to limit their results
- Ability to re-sort by either date or relevance

The screenshot shows the WestlawNext Canada interface for a search on 'privacy'. The search results are displayed in a list format, with a 'Sort by' dropdown menu highlighted in orange. The dropdown menu shows three options: 'Relevance', 'Date', and 'Relevance'. The search results are sorted by relevance, showing the top 8 results. The left sidebar contains various filters, including 'NARROW:', 'Year', 'Subject', 'Document Type', 'Viewed in the last 30 days', 'Documents in Folders', and 'Annotated Documents'.

Directories on WestlawNext Canada

WestlawNext Canada Directories help you find expert witnesses both in Canada and the US, as well as lawyers, mediators and arbitrators. WestlawNext Canada's new interface will enable users to search terms and phrases, search by name, town, jurisdiction, case name and citation, and area of expertise, while also offering them the option of excluding documents and narrowing their search to results of significance.

The Expert Witness Directory includes profiles of expert witnesses and consultants from across Canada, including contact information and area(s) of expertise. Additional information such as fee structure, the province in which services are provided, links to CVs, and links to judgments in which the expert or consultant has been mentioned, is also included. Users that are interested in finding expert witnesses with CV's can also filter their results to include only these experts, ensuring that the most valuable information is easily accessible.

The Expert Witness Directory can also be accessed through a case law search. Upon finding a relevant case with expert witness information, users can access the list of expert witnesses through the Expert Witness tab, located at the top of the screen, which links to the profile information of each expert witness involved with the particular case of interest.

Articles and Case Annotations from Canada Law Book law reports

Soon, every article and case annotation that has been published in a Canada Law Book law report since their inception will be available on WestlawNext Canada. These articles and case annotations were previously available on BestCase and the Spectrum products.
